PRESIDENT'S REPORT Maleny/January Rally 2022

The Maleny rally was our first club rally for 2023 and was enjoyed greatly by all participants. The location in the Sunshine Coast hinterland is very scenically attractive and the weather remained comfortably cooler than anticipated for this time of year. The Maleny Showgrounds rally site met our needs. Our 56 units were split between the two ovals which while not ideal was manageable. Hall facilities were magnificent. We were able to access the Exhibition Shed earlier in the rally and the Pavilion for our main events. Dean the caretaker was very helpful especially in setting up.

A highlight of this rally was daily sightings of platypus in the nearby Obi Obi creek.

Pat Mander our Entertainment Co-ordinator once again ensured the rally program was varied and interesting.

Card Making with Bev Green, Crafty Ladies with Di Brearley, Yvonne's Sewing Group and those playing cards all used the Exhibition Shed. Australia Day Fun and Games with Linda Jones also found this space ideal. Linda organised fun activities such as egg and spoon racing, thong throwing {both types} and various activities using paper cups. Everyone was involved and enjoyed a 'wow' of a time.

The only off-site activity this rally, was the popular social bowls afternoon organised by Ray MacDonald and held at the Maleny Bowls Club.

The Management Committee meeting was the first activity in the Pavilion. Dancing with Kevin and Carol Day also used this space, making full use of the magnificent wooden floor. Learning to dance is excellent preparation for the Op Shop Masked Ball to be held at our next rally.

At our Saturday Forum we were delighted to welcome as visitors Sue, Gordan and Darren Baker, Ross and Jan Munro, Lyn Hill and Lilliana granddaughter of Robyn and Steve Langley.

First timers welcomed were Robert and Wendy Gaunt, and Laurie O'Brien. Moreover we were excited to be able to induct five new members simultaneously, these being Peter and Karin Flinn, Eric and Lyn Trevithick and Chris Frederiks. Welcome all.

On Saturday evening everyone dressed in their very colourful Hawaiian outfits and enjoyed a great meal of Ham and salads with Pavlova for dessert. The hall was a kaleidoscope of colour throughout the evening. This delicious meal was prepared under the supervision of Gail Caddies with the assistance of a team of members who also served the meals to the tables. During the evening Linda Jones engaged members in some fun activities while Wendy and Barry Gibson provided appropriate music.

While not a fundraising event, the whole evening was run so efficiently a sizeable donation was made to our club charities by Ray Caddies our Convenor at our Sunday Forum.

Members who stayed Sunday evening enjoyed a very relaxing group happy hour and sausage sizzle.

Our February rally to be held at Kenilworth Showgrounds will include a President's BBQ dinner on Friday evening and a Masked Op Shop Ball on Saturday night. Looking forward to a great rollup there. In the meantime stay well and travel safely.

President Jim Thrope

Article from the Seniors Discount Club

Here are the top 10 lesser-known road laws you might not be aware of:

Are you unknowingly breaking the law? Find out the little-known driving violations that could get you fined for as high as $533!

We're all used to the usual road rules like not using a phone while driving, adhering to the speed limit, and avoiding driving under the influence, but the slew of unusual road laws that are on the books is a lot longer than most of us realise.

1. Hurling apple cores out of a moving vehicle (Fine: $533 and two demerit points)

You may have thought that throwing a banana skin or apple core out of your car window was an innocent act of biodegradable littering, but think again; drivers in QLD could cop a hefty $533 fine and two demerit points for dropping 'injurious matter on a road'.

2. Waving goodbye and tooting your horn (Fine: $698 and three demerit points.)

If you're in NSW, giving a friendly beep on the horn when you leave someone can land you in trouble with the law.

Unnecessary use of the horn or warning device as a friendly farewell can incur a $349 fine by itself, while throwing in a wave alongside the beep can double that fine to a total of $698 and three points.

3. Paying at a drive-through with your phone (Fine: $534 and five demerit points)

The dangers of using a mobile phone in a vehicle are well-known, but using your phone to pay for your meal at a drive-through is an act not many people are aware of.

Depending on the state, you could be liable for a $534 fine and could also cop five demerit points for doing it. To avoid the fine, members, you should switch your engine off and have your handbrake on before using your mobile phone to pay for your meal.

4. Cutting through a service station (Fine: $349 and three demerit points)

In a hurry to get to your destination and stuck in traffic or at a red light? Don't consider cutting through a service station as a shortcut!

It falls under the 'drive on or over footpath' road rule, and can cost you a hefty $349 fine and three demerit points.

5. Splashing water at pedestrians (Fine: $187)

Be careful when passing a puddle that's in the vicinity of a pedestrian; you could be fined if said pedestrian gets splashed.

In NSW, this much-ridiculed rule isn't limited to just pedestrians who are walking by the side of the road – it applies to those who are waiting for a bus too. Pity the poor passengers who can't get to the sheltered side of the bus stop!

Penalty points aren't applicable, but you'll definitely still feel the sting of the fine hitting your wallet.

6. Accelerating when you're being overtaken (Fine: $344 and two demerit points)

We all know the feeling of frustration that can come with being next to an aggressive over-taker. But don't take the bait and speed up!

If you do, you could face a $344 fine and two demerit points for such behaviour in NSW, or $330 and two demerit points if you're in Victoria.

7. Flashing lights to alert people about speed cameras or RBT (Fine: $116 and one demerit point)

Although it's appreciated by many drivers, flashing your lights to warn others of police presence is a punishable offence – one that lands you a $116 ticket and one demerit point.

Previously, the rule referred to using high beams in a built-up area, but now covers 'use of high beams towards oncoming vehicles'.

In NSW, drivers should be wary of this law regardless of whether they're in fog or inclement weather.

8. Driving through a school zone's nature strip (Fine: $464 fine and four demerit points)

If you happen to be in a school zone, do not mount any kerb or median strip – no matter how difficult it is to find a spot to park.

Not only will you be putting yourself and other vehicles in danger, but you may also face a hefty $464 fine and four points for such behaviour.

9. Not giving way to horses (Fine: $130)

Although horses are no longer a frequent sight on the road, it's still a good rule of thumb to give way to horses on the rare occasions you encounter one

If a rider signals at you to indicate the horse is being stubborn and won't move, you must move to the left, turn off your engine, and wait. Fail to do so, and you might face a $130 fine in Queensland.

10. Not taking your key out of the ignition (Fine: $114)

No matter how much of a hurry you're in, NEVER leave your car key in the ignition or unattended. Doing so could put you at risk of car theft or worse - a $114 fine in NSW.

It's also important to remember that these rules and penalties may vary from state to state, so always make sure you are aware of the laws and road regulations of the states you may be travelling.
